Dear Mr. Speaker:

Overview

1985 was a dramatic year in Ontario politics. For the Commission, responsible not only for supervision of fund-raising and expenditures during election campaigns, but tidying up afterwards, it was likewise a dramatic and hectic year.

For the public, an election ends when the results become evident on election night. But for some officials, and for the Commission, the real work is just beginning. Our year-round task is support of political associations and parties, helping them raise and account for funds to stay alive and active between elections, to educate and advise on maintenance of accounts and reporting procedures, to review our own guidelines, forms and precedents, to examine, correct and approve annual and by-election financial statements, and many other related duties. For this, we have a permanent staff of nine people. Elections superimpose a sudden and heavy burden on these regular duties. Our Commission's work centres around political events, and a brief summary of these events will help to report on our year's activities.

On Thanksgiving week-end, 1984, Premier William G. Davis announced his decision to retire as leader of the Progressive Conservative Party and Premier, as soon as a new leader was selected. A general election being no longer imminent, by-elections were ordered on October 29, 1984 in five constituencies with vacancies.

A leadership convention was called for January 24th to 26th, 1985. Mr. Frank Miller, long-time Cabinet Minister won the convention. He became Premier, reorganized the executive council, and on March 25th called a general election in Ontario. Following the election on May 2nd, the Progressive Conservatives held 52 seats, the Liberals 48 and the New Democrats 25. The Lieutenant-Governor called upon Mr. Miller to form a government, which he did.

But on May 28th Mr. Peterson and Mr. Rae, Leader of the New Democratic Party of Ontario signed an accord in which the latter agreed to support the Liberals and to defeat the government in the House. This accord culminated on May 31st, 1985 in a vote of non-confidence in the government. Mr. Peterson was sworn in as Premier of Ontario on June 26th, 1985. Mr. Miller stated his intention to resign as leader of the Progressive Conservative Party on August 20th, 1985 and a new leadership convention was called for November 15th and 16th, 1985. Mr. Larry Grossman became leader of the P.C. Party, and Leader of the Opposition in the House. The foregoing events gave rise in large part to the work and problems of the Commission.

Workload

By-elections were held on December 13th, 1984 in the constituencies of Hamilton Centre, Ottawa Centre, Ottawa East, Prescott and Russell and Wentworth North. The campaign period, during which contributions may continue to be received, extended to April 13th, 1985. The financial returns were due in the Commission offices on June 13th, 1985. Probably due to the fact that over three years had elapsed since the previous general election, and many new officers were in place, the Commission had difficulty in getting these few financial returns filed and in proper order.

The first P.C. Leadership campaign was in progress during January 1985. While the Commission technically has no supervision over party leadership, in fact our staff is subject to extensive inquiries and complaints and must exercise supervision and vigilance concerning transfer and use of tax-deducted funds in party leadership campaigns.

A general election brings to a peak the work of the Commission. All candidates must be registered, C.F.O.'s and auditors appointed and general preparation occupies the first few weeks. During the campaign itself, our work centres around campaign advertising, which is restricted both in time and money. Complaints about early and improper advertising must be investigated immediately. Fund-raising must be carried out as directed by law, and numerous enquiries totally unrelated to the Commission's work must be dealt with. For the May 2nd election, 442 candidates were registered and provided with instructions. As with the by-elections, the campaign period extends four months after polling day, in order to raise money, pay bills and organize the campaign accounts. The 1985 campaign period continued until September 2nd and financial returns were due in the Commission offices by November 2nd, 1985.

One feature of an election campaign is often overlooked. Each constituency association and each party must file with the Commission a separate financial return for the campaign period. This return was due at the same time as candidate returns, namely, on November 2nd, 1985. The reason is that the total amount spent by candidate and association on campaign advertising is limited by law to 25 cents for each name on the revised voters list. A registered political party is likewise limited in campaign advertising during an election period. A financial return for the remainder of the year 1985 must be filed by May 31st, 1986.

Overlying these campaign period returns, the 1984 annual financial returns for the 416 constituency associations and the 7 registered parties became due on May 31st, 1985. At one period of time, therefore, the Commission was involved with examination, auditing and approval of 1984 by-election returns, 1984 annual returns plus candidate, association and party general election returns. If these had all been filed with us on time, and in good order, it would have been a lot easier on everyone. But in fact, about 12% of our returns are filed late and two-thirds of our returns require further action after they are received, for additional material, mathematical correction, clarification, amendment and possible contraventions.

Escalating Cost

During 1985, people began to realize the high cost of political action. The Federal election of 1984, followed by the P.C. Leadership Campaign in Ontario saw the figures increase drastically. The General Election of 1985 had the highest cost in history. The purpose of the Legislature in 1975, when it set up a system of controls, was to encourage more people to contribute in smaller amounts to the political process. This has been achieved. But when costs go up, it is not simply increasing the numbers; it results in an increased volume of work; more contributors, more expenditures and more book-keeping. That means work for everyone involved.

Election Aftermath

The 1985 general election brought an exceptional amount of activity, resulting in problems in constituencies with fund-raising events, campaign expenditures, poor communication, failure to keep the C.F.O.'s informed and poor record maintenance. This was hard on the C.F.O. and just as hard on Commission staff. The Members of the Commission, meeting regularly, had to consider a large number of "special cases," deciding what kind of action should be taken when contraventions occurred. These poor returns delayed approval of campaign financial statements and payment of subsidy and auditors' fees. The Commission members are well aware of the problems of fund-raising and accounting, but must remind candidates, C.F.O.'s and others that the rules are clear. If they are relaxed or overlooked in one case, it is unfair to the others who have carefully followed them.

C.F.O. Fatique

The people who took the brunt of all the foregoing events were the chief financial officers and treasurers. We have to remember that these people are unpaid volunteers; that many of them act in both provincial and federal capacities, and for their local associations as well as for candidates. Federal and provincial rules are different. In many cases, the C.F.O.'s do the actual fund-raising as well as the accounting.

As the 1985 campaign ended, the C.F.O.'s had at least two sets of books to keep and financial returns to file - the annual returns for 1984 required by May 31st, 1985, and the campaign returns for 1985. It was a lonely job for a lot of them. Interest in the election, the campaign accounts and other details fades on election night. The person left with the dirty job is the C.F.O. By statute, he or she is the person responsible for filing a financial statement on time; failure can result in prosecution or reprimand, and at very least, the time-consuming job of putting together on paper the left-overs of all those eager election workers is in their hands.

The members of our Commission know the problems. All six of the party appointees have been election workers. They sympathize with those volunteers. Yet they have been given the job of seeing that the Election Finances Reform Act is carried out. It may seem obscure to workers in the field, but the Ontario Act was well put together and, if carefully followed, results in as few sharp practises as in any jurisdiction. Nevertheless, the staff has received quite a number of complaints from chief financial officers that they find the work over-whelming, and only continue out of loyalty to party or candidate. Some have simply quit.

A word of thanks and appreciation is due to these hard-working people, and we hope that candidates and party officials give them due recognition.

Party Leadership Campaigns

Also arising from the events of 1985 were questions concerning political party leadership conventions. Public discussion and allegations concerning the high cost of these events, the amount of tax-deducted funds finding their way into leadership candidate campaigns and the desirability or not of government involvement, led the Commission to research and publish a background study. It takes no position, but discloses facts, figures and opinions expressed. This volume is now available at the Commission office under the title "Political Financing: Studies on Election Spending Limits and Party Leadership Compaigns."

Goods and Services

Several problems were encountered during the past year with the provision of goods and services as a receiptable contribution. The Act makes it clear that volunteer labour for a candidate, association or party is not a contribution. Volunteers may make money contributions in the same amount as anyone else. Conversely, a person who volunteers his or her services cannot be given a tax-deductible receipt for services. The Commission considers the moment of contact as the crucial time. If a person offers to help free in the beginning, he or she is a volunteer. If hired to work, he or she is not a volunteer. Goods contributed or services rendered for pay must be valued at the lowest price charged in the local market at that time, and if valued at over $100. a contribution receipt may be issued. Improper or over-valued receipts will be declared invalid by the Commission.

Enforcement

The sensitive side of our work came into full focus during the year 1985. Following the federal election of September 1984, it was revealed that a number of successful candidates, (now M.P.'s) were under investigation for overspending during the campaign, and for non-disclosure. The situation was very embarrassing for the candidates and also for the election finances section of the Federal Election Office. Two well-known M.P.'s (one Conservative, one Liberal) have been cleared of any contravention of the Act, but in the meantime, the fact of an R.C.M.P. investigation has been damaging. The Chief Election Officer of Quebec has also been under pressure for events during the December 1985 campaign and after. In both cases, the Chief Election Officers are competent and fair administrators and ran their elections without undue problems. It was in the administration of election finances that trouble arose.

In Ontario, the operation of elections by the Chief Election Officer has been completely separated from the supervision of political fund-raising and accounting. Our Commission administers election finances under a board composed mainly of party appointees. They jointly take the responsibility for political (though not partisan) decisions. There has always been some debate, in academic circles at least, as to which system is preferable. Our Commission members believe in their responsibilities and carry them out. As already mentioned, there are always situations which must be investigated, and may lead to prosecution. The real problem is deciding whether we are dealing with over-zealous party workers, or with those who ignore the rules intentionally. The Commission is inclined to give volunteer workers the benefit of the doubt.

Nevertheless, the Commission has reviewed its internal procedures in view of the problems encountered elsewhere.

Tenth Anniversary

On February 13th, 1985, the Commission held a reception at its offices in Toronto to mark the tenth anniversary of its founding. The reception was attended by about 100 persons, including members of the Camp Commission, which recommended the terms of operation in 1974, the legislative leaders of 1975, the original Commission members and staff, chief financial officers with ten years of service, M.P.P.'s and cabinet ministers. It was a happy occasion for all who attended. Plaques and certificates were presented and refreshments were served. A 90 page book "The Commission: Ten Years Later" was produced for the occasion to review the events which occurred during the previous ten years.

Amendments

The Commission continued its efforts to see the Election Finances Reform Act administratively improved by legislation of amendments which have been recommended for a number of years. The hope of achieving this goal was improved by inclusion in the pact between the Liberal and N.D.P. Leaders of an item concerning election finances. The Commission hopes to see its amendments enacted into law during 1986.

PART II

THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY ACT

MEMBERS INDEMNITIES AND ALLOWANCES

The Commission in December 1978 was given the responsibility of making such recommendations as it considered appropriate with regard to the Indemnities and Allowances of Members of the Assembly and in respect of the salaries and allowances of Party Leaders, Cabinet Ministers and Parliamentary Assistants.

Reports setting out the recommendation of the Commission were submitted to the Speaker each year from 1979 to 1985. The Eighth Report submitted May 8, 1985 recommended (a) that the basic indemnity payable to each Member of the Legislative Assembly be increased from $34,808 to $40,000;

(b) that the additional indemnity payable to the Leader of a recognized Party be increased from $14,998 to $16,500;

(c) that the per diem allowances for Committee work be doubled from $63 per day ($73 for Chairman) to $126 per day ($146 for Chairman) and that this allowance be fully taxable;

(d) that 15 years of pensionable service should be sufficient to qualify for full pension benefits; and

(e) that additional indemnities payable to Members of the Legislature in respect of various offices held by Members, including Membership in the Executive Council be increased by four per cent.

The Legislature adopted only recommendation (d) as set out above, however, and elected to increase the basic indemnity, the expense allowance and all additional indemnities payable in respect of offices held by Members by 3.9%, in keeping with the Government's policy with respect to financial restraint.

The financial operations of the Commission for the calendar year 1985 were as follows:

A special thank you is extended to the Chief Financial Officers, who spend so much of their own time in maintaining their accounts and filing returns and to the Members of the Assembly for their advice and assistance.
